

Where Contentment Reigns.

There is more genuine contentment in one of our Little Vineyard farms than you can possibly imagine. Here you will find the little DePuy have sold it to C. E. Ely, of farm with the big profit. You don't have to be a man of finance to own one of these tracts—all you have to have is a small amount of cash and a big desire to make good, our easy pay contract, backed by the three biggest wells in the valley, will do the rest.

Out here is where you can forget the noise of the city, pass up the drudgery of the office and grow. Of course you will have to work, but it is a kind of work you will enjoy. You will grow old gracefully, you will grow independent easily, and your children and wife will be satisfied and healthy. Do not delay any longer but write us about our contract or call if you are within reach. We have some interesting literature for you.

Already more than 400 acres of this tract is producing big returns to its owners and development has only just started.

Get in on the ground floor and you need have no worry about the future. The Little Vineyards Co., Room 18, Mahoney Building, Deming, New Mexico.

Carrizozo to Advertise.

Carrizozo, N. M., Nov. 8.—A call containing about 100 names of Carrizozo business men and citizens resident in all sections of Lincoln county has been issued for a public meeting to be held Monday evening for the purpose of discussing plans looking to a thorough campaign of publicity of the resources of this county. Among other things to be considered are plans for a local experiment station, to be irrigated from shallow wells. A very large number of shallow wells ranging from 18 to 50 feet, have been obtained within a radius of a few miles from the town within the last few years, and although no test has been made as to the amount of water available for irrigation purposes from these wells, there is a general belief that by going somewhat deeper other strata of water will be found that will assure an abundance for well irrigation, and the proposition is to establish a demonstration tract that will show the newcomer exactly what can be done.

It is expected the agricultural department of the El Paso & Southwestern railroad and the state agricultural college authorities will lend assistance to the plans.

Strange Theory.

A strong and eloquent plea for a deeper study of the unusual child, rather than the defective child, was the burden of an address delivered last night at the Elks theatre before a large audience. The speaker was Dan D. E. Phillips, head of the department of philosophy and education at the University of Denver. The audience was composed largely of educators, the occasion being one of the meetings of the State Educational Association now in session here. Dean Phillips' address opens up a phase of the educational question strongly in contrast to the present trend of the educational idea, in that it urged special attention for the budding genius, the child which shows possibilities of greatness, rather than for the defective, for which class present days school men and women are now doing all in their power. It was the old cry of survival of the fittest, only Dean Phillips phrased it differently. He said that it was better to develop the great ones, those who would ultimately be of most benefit to society, rather than to strive to bring the defective ones up to the normal. Leaders were what the world wanted, he declared, and not an additional number of mediocre members of society.—Albuquerque Journal.

Don: Kedzie Said.

The Deming Graphic, the boom- ingest boosting paper there ever was has changed hands. Holt & DePuy have sold it to C. E. Ely, of Santa Fe. Mr. Ely is a young man, and an experienced newspaper worker, having been city editor of the New Mexican up to the time it recently changed hands, and has set out to earn the shovel. Messrs. Holt & DePuy intend to show that their boosting of Deming and the Mimbres Valley was not entirely hot air. They have secured title to several hundred acres of land and are going to put most of it into alfalfa, and then sit in the shade of a barbed wire fence and watch it grow. They figure there is more money in an acre of alfalfa than in a column of legal advertisements.—Lordsburg Liberal.
